The interested public will have the opportunity to provide their expert comments between the first and second readings. On behalf of the Anti-Corruption Network of Civil Society Organizations in Bosnia and Herzegovina - ACCOUNT, JUSTICIA / Srebrenik, the leading organization of the Sector Group Whistleblowers, participated in the development of the Draft Law. JUSTICIA presented the main aspects of this law to the monitoring team for development of the Draft Law at a joint meeting on March 26, 2018 in Sarajevo. All members of the team (KAM / Zenica, CRCD / Doboj, ALDI / Goražde, CROA / Sarajevo, CGS / Livno, JUSTICIA / Srebrenik) will participate in public discussions on the draft law before its adoption. The team will, inter alia, advocate for introducing a provision whereby those individuals who report corruption are exempted from paying court fees before the judgment is issued, in accordance with the laws governing court fees.

RESEARCH BY JUSTICIA: Seven institutions received corruption reports in the past period

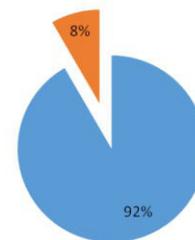

The JUSTICIA Association conducted a research "Assessing the Effects of Anti-Corruption Regulations and Monitoring the Effects of the BiH Law on Protection of Whistleblowers", which included 60 state institutions. Among other findings of the survey, it was determined that 7 institutions received reports on corruption cases in the past period, and that 5 of them received reports from citizens. The most common reasons for such a small number of reports, indicated by the respondents, are the fear of retaliation, mistrust in the mechanisms of protection, or absence of corruption in their institutions.

Anti-Corruption Youth Forum Held

The first Anti-Corruption Youth Forum Held in Mostar

On March 28, 2018, the first Anti-Corruption Youth Forum was held in Mostar on "The Impact of Anti-Corruption Education on the Change of Youth Perception on Corruption." The Forum was organized by the Center for the Development of Youth Activism (CROA), the purpose of which was to open a youth dialogue on the perceived level of corruption in education in BiH; in which areas it appears, and in what way it is manifested, but also how anti-corruption education affects the perception of youth on corruption.

In an introductory speech, the CROA Director, Zafir Šišić, explained the main idea of the project of investigating the perception of corruption in education in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Panelists, representatives of educational institutions, representatives of the government institutions and non-governmental sector, representatives of the Youth Council as well as students pointed to a multitude of problems in the education system, starting from the increasingly frequent occurrence of numerous irregularities (bribery, corruption) to the curricula in which the final goals of education are not clearly defined, the problems faced by teaching and scholarly staff in the educational process, and the lack of unified codes of ethics in educational institutions in BiH.

“Mini Detector of Corruption”

41% of young people are intolerant to corruption

Corruption does not exist in their universe. They represent a classical example of a “nerd”, someone who follows the rules and laws blindly, does not engage in calculations, does not seek other solutions, but strictly adheres to moral principles and observes the rules. These are highly moral persons, consistent, persistent, totally objective. They are always trying to fight for truth and justice.

31% of young people Intolerant to corruption

These are people who respect the rules and their behavior in corrupt situations is in accordance with the general norms. People who attribute greater importance to moral values do not tolerate injustice, do not accept the idea that corruption is an integral part of everyday life simply because "they all do it" and because "it cannot be different".

15% of young people on the verge of losing relevant and normative orientations

Their reaction to the social state is the adoption of various forms of deviant behavior, within which it is difficult to draw the line between the socially acceptable "circumvention" of regulations, the relativizing of moral norms and the open practice of immorality and corruption.

13% of young people accept corruption as an everyday phenomenon

Although they have a certain negative opinion on corruption, they do not have too many problems to make use of particular advantages of a situation. They are lazy in terms of taking a personal attitude, they are likely to adapt to the environment, giving socially acceptable and desirable answers, and they follow a line of lesser resistance. They function according to the principle of service for service, putting their needs to the forefront. They look for getting the best for themselves, regardless of possible long-term consequences.

CGS LIVNO

On March 6, 2018, Čapljina adopted the Action Plan for Combating Corruption at the local level (2018-2023).

KAM ZENICA

After completing the quantitative and qualitative analysis of the self-assessment of the areas that are exposed to corruption and workshops on the preparation of action plans for the fight against corruption based on the analysis, the Working Groups of the Travnik and Žepče municipalities have started the preparation of the Action Plans, while Visoko is the first municipality in 2018 that adopted the Action Plan for Prevention of Corruption. The consequences of corruption in practice include poor public services, increased social polarization, inefficiency in public services, low investment in the municipality, reduction of economic growth, inadequate treatment of citizens by municipal officials. Although there is no a unique recipe for combating corruption at the local level, the development of anti-corruption action plans has proven to be a good preventative format.

U BiH do posla najlakše uz džoker "stranačka knjižica"

"Pozovi stranku za posao" u najkraćem je opis kako nezaposleni danas rješavaju svoje egzistencijalno pitanje. Ali samo oni koji pripadaju jednom od tri konstitutivna naroda, pokazuju posljednji podaci o novozaposlenima u institucijama.

"SDA, HDZ i SBB su vladajuće stranke i one određuju pravila ponašanja" izjavila je za interview.ba Ivana Marić, politička analitičarka povodom jučerašnje vijesti kako je u Vladi Federacije Bosne i Hercegovine uprkos moratoriju nastavljeno zapošljavanje državnih službenika po etničkom principu, čak 66 državnih službenika, a najviše Bošnjaka i Hrvata.
